

By Morning Light

Shannon VanZegeren

Blinded, misguided
Lost in the darkness below
My bones have all broken
In despair, lost and alone

But you remembered me in my misery
Heard my cry when I called your Name
My hope was lost but Your faithful love
Rescued me from sin and shame

*Hallelujah! Hallelujah!
From the depths you rescued me
With each new dawn new mercies come
And it's by morning light, I see*

Troubles and trials
It's because You're so good that I ache
Without it, I'd never Know my deep need for your grace

Yet you took my pain, my sin, my shame
You lived the life that no one could
The midday sun, concealed and gone
Arms outstretched on a cross of wood

*Hallelujah! Hallelujah!
From the depths you rescued me
With each new dawn new mercies come
And it's by morning light, I see*

You suffered, but conquered
Death by dying for me
My Champion, Companion
Now forever my Shepherd, You lead

Now my portion, Lord, forevermore
No more fear when darkness comes
Championed my cause, my life redeemed
Brilliant like the morning sun

*Hallelujah! Hallelujah!
From the depths you rescued me
With each new dawn new mercies come
And it's by morning light, I see*
